INTRODUCTION

Today the profession of teaching in Pharmacy has become quite challenging. Pharmacy teachers are expected to be both effective teachers and researchers. A teacher can “teach” all day long and cover an extensive amount of material, but if students have not learnt the material, the exercise is an enormous waste of energy and time. Being an educator is not just about sharing knowledge; it is about making sure that learners truly integrate this knowledge and derive learning out of it. Any teaching that does not result in effective learning is useless. Therefore, to be an effective teacher, one needs to be able to deliver the domain knowledge using the most suitable pedagogical tools. An effective teacher is also required to remain at the frontiers of knowledge in his/her areas of subject expertise.

As teachers, we are all concerned with improving the education that our students receive. But instead of focusing on the classroom, we need to take a step back: if education is going to improve, we must work on improving initial teacher training. For this, every teacher needs to continuously upgrade himself/herself by engaging in learning new teaching skills and involving in research also.

In Pharmacy candidates opting teaching as career, are not trained as a professional teacher as in case of Bachelor and Master of education (B. Ed/M. Ed).

Therefore, this Faculty Development Programme (FDP) is aimed at honing the teaching skills of Pharmacy teachers.

PROGRAMME OBJECTIVES

- To train teachers with skills and knowledge to promote the professional development.
- To foster a climate for innovation in teaching and learning.
- Be able to suitably apply the principles of learning in varied learning contexts.
