CONTINUING PHARMA EDUCATION

A PATH FROM INDUSTRIAL TRAINING TO INDUSTRIAL TRAINER.....

Its being a great pleasure for me that I am presenting this article on behalf of OPAA.

So in this article i am going to share a short experience after passing my B.Pharm. i.e. as being an Orientalite.....

I still miss those days of my college life when we did our Industrial Training(I.T.). Yes that is after T.Y's , when summer was onto our heads and when we just finished our semester exams. Even i remember that during Sem VI we have been informed by our teachers for the same but we didn't took it seriously at that time. Sometimes we took advices from our seniors or sometimes from few faculties. Loitering for the companies from Vashi to Thane or Sanpada to Andheri etc. etc. But nobody to select, its like Shakespeare famous words "water water everywhere, but nor a drop to drink". Then started bunking various lectures of P'ceutics, Med.Chem.,P'cology,P'cognosy,Cosmetics but still no success. Finally not only me, everyone of us managed to get atleast one firm where we can do our I.T. for atleast a day and getting certificate for a complete month. Oh yeah! What an idea sirjee....joined company for I.T. soon after the xam's. Once again boring days started i.e. learning (but this time with big machines). Back to basics again for getting the certificate. Finally jotted all the points, compiled it and submitted the waste into the college.

After the degree for the jobs when interviewer asked "what you did in I.T.?".....OMG! Unexpected.....my answer "sir, seen soooooo big machines for the first time, lot many things to learn, unable to remember anything now".

But today I at industry as an executive needs to train various students of B.Pharm. and other para graduates. So as being a trainer one needs to have mainly not only the Knowledge but also the required Skills and the Attitude (KSA). Yeah! Today also students of B.Pharm. generally do the mistakes in the training and I am always there to hide the same (being unethical to other para graduates).

Now I feel the importance of bunked lectures of Kar sir or Med Chem. lectures or industrial training or boring p'cognosy practicals etc. So finally I learnt that "life is a lifelong learning of our mistakes and nothing else".
